

Ling (Holly) Hang

Piano

Teaching Philosophy/Style

Learning piano and playing music should be engaging, fulfilling and fun. Mrs. Hang's goal is to develop passionate musicianship. She not only teaches how to play the piano, but also focuses on individual musicality. With years of teaching experience, she is fluent in English and Chinese (Mandarin) and has the flexibility to adjust her teaching style to fit a variety of students.

Performance/Teaching Experience

Ling (Holly) Hang, a native of Taiwan, earned her Master of Music degree from the University of North Texas in 2014, where she studied clarinet with John Scott and collaborative piano with Steve Harlos and Berthe Odnoposoff. Mrs. Hang was a member of the UNT Wind symphony, the UNT Collegium wind-conducting workshop, and can be heard on the 2012 through 2014 recordings by GIA publications. She currently teaches in Denton ISD, White Settlement in Fort Worth, Founders Classical Academy of Flower Mound, and is an active collaborative pianist throughout the Dallas/Fort Worth area. In the collaborative piano field, she specializes on instrumental works, and has performed a number of recitals at UNT. Currently she is an accompanist for the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church and piano instructor in the Rojas School of Music.

More experience upon request

Education

Master of Music 2014

University of North Texas, Denton, TX, USA
Major- Clarinet Performance
Related Field- Collaborative Piano

Bachelor of Art 2009

Shih-Chien University, Taipei city, Taiwan
Major- Clarinet Performance
Minor- Piano Performance